To whom it may concern,

We are reaching out to all of our local schools to let them know about our program. Our program started a few years back but has seen substantial growth in the last year. There have been a few occasions in which the local schools didn't know our program existed. With that being said, we would like to let you know about our mission.

Our mission is to bring as much joy as we can to children suffering from cancer and other serious illnesses. Through the years we have been able to meet several incredible children and we know that schools have been a great resource for us.

We ask that if you know anyone that would be interested in reaching out to Project Fire Buddies to forward them our contact information and urge them to visit our website. We know these children are going through a lot and we would like to offer as much assistance as we can.

Sincerely,

Emily Finn
